Ten Registered Ordered To Build Up Milk Strain

Dairy Committee of Local Chamber Takes Action
Monday.

PURE DAIRY STOCK

Missouri Pacific Dairy
Expert To Aid In Selecting.

The dairy committee of the Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting Monday afternoon, took definite steps toward complete elimination of the scrub herd in Hempstead county with agreement to purchase ten registered males, of straight dairy stock, most of them to be placed in various sections of territory tributary to Hope. And, according to County Agent Lynn Smith, if sections of the county not yet visited respond as warmly to committee plans as have those which have already been visited, another order will be placed at a later date.

The animals, according to the committee's decision, must be from tested dams and sires, not older than 15 months, and the cost to place them in this section will be approximately $200 each.

Roy Anderson, president of the Chamber, was advised by Mr. Stinson, of the Missouri Pacific, that that road would, in accordance with its promise made last spring, assist in the move by lending the service of the head of their dairy development department in selecting the animals, and that they would be transported to Hope without cost to the committee or purchasers. It is believed delivery of the bulls will be made the latter part of October.

County Agent Lynn Smith and Winston Cobb and Nolan Lewallen, state champion dairy judging team, will leave Thursday morning, visiting the State Fair at Little Rock that date and then going to St. Louis for the National Dairy Show, and while there will look over animals suitable as herd heads in this section, and it is possible that the ten bulls ordered may be selected while Mr. Smith is at the show, choice being made by the Missouri Pacific dairy development head and Harry March, president of the American Jersey Cattle Club.

This will be, when it arrives, the first car of registered sires ever shipped to Hempstead county, and many citizens interested in dairying and dairy development plan proper recognition of the event.

Four Convicts Fear Rope In Riot Probe

Believe Weapons Still Held By Prisoners After Outbreak.

CANYON, CITY, Colo., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Reconstruction work and the relentless grilling of prisoners believed to have been involved in the Colorado state prison riot, continued Monday under the supervision of Billy Green, deputy warden, E. P. Crawford, warden, attended a prison board meeting with Governor W. H. Adams in Denver.

With two convicts, Charles Davis and Leo W. McGentry in solitary confinement the name of two others mentioned in semi-official files as possible suspects in the instigation of the riot which cost 12 lives. No official statement on the connection these men might have had with the riots was forthcoming.

During the investigation, the possibility developed that perhaps 20 or 30 convicts might have been involved in the riot. The investigators also said they were convinced that at least seven guns used by the mutineers still were hidden in the prison. In some quarters the fear of a further outbreak was expressed.

A coroner's inquest into the deaths in the riot was postponed until October 10.

W. H. Arnold Sits As Special Judge In County Today

Texas Attorney Elected by Hempstead
County Bar

COURT IN SESSION

Judge Arnold Begins Civil
Trials At 1:30 P.
M. Today

W. H. Arnold, attorney of Texas, was elected special judge for the fall session of Hempstead county circuit court, this morning at Washington.

Following his selection, which was made by members of the county bar, court was recessed until 1:30 this afternoon, when Judge Arnold on his way here from Texas, will formally open the fall term.

First on the opening program this afternoon will be the summoning of the Hempstead county grand jury, Judge Arnold's charge to the jury, and the opening of trial of cases on the civil docket. This week's proceedings will be from the civil docket entirely, with criminal court opening next Monday, October 14.

There are 71 cases on the criminal docket, of which 45 involve whiskey charges.

The regular opening of civil court, which was to have been yesterday, was delayed a full day owing to the disqualifying of Judge J. H. McCollum by illness, and the necessity of choosing a special judge. The county bar met this morning and decided on Judge Arnold, who had been frequently mentioned for the honor.

A large number of attorneys, principals and witnesses from Hope and other county points were in attendance for court early this morning, and the courtyard lawn at Washington was spread for a noon meal outdoors.

Four Water Holes Force Oil From Well In Center

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Water pressure enables operators in the Bradford fields of northwestern Pennsylvania to drill a well where they please with the certainty of getting oil.

Four water wells are drilled at the corners of a square 200 to 300 feet on a side. In the center is drilled one oil well. Water is forced down the four corner wells under pressure, and oil comes up the central well.

The method works, says Dr. Charles R. Fetteke, professor of geology and mineralogy at Carnegie Institute of Technology, regardless of oil wells that may be in the vicinity. The method is called the "five-spot."

Dr. Fetteke has just completed four years study of the method and says it has "brought up production tremendously."

First Political Rumors Are Heard

Much Medicine Expected To Be Made During This Court Term

Placing small fires under the political pot to get the water warmed up will, according to the wise-ones, be one of the not results of the present term of court, for where these many are gathered the prospective office seekers will lay, at least, the worm-rail for his political fence-building of next year.

Officers of sheriff, county judge and representative are just now attracting most of the interest, with from nine to 14 slated as entrants in two of the tilts, while in the county judge's handicap it will be a head-and-head affair. Also it might be mentioned the county clerk's office is being viewed with receptive eyes by more than one seeker for a pull at the public seat.

The conditions formed this month at Washington, say political observers, will be felt next year when the campaign is formally opened, for apparently lots of fellows think the worm belongs to the early bird.

Father Patrick O'Neill, a penitentiary chaplain who advanced under a machine gun barrage to plant charges of dynamite against the walls of the cell house in which Colorado's rioting convicts were barricaded, is shown above at the left. Beside him is Warden Francis E. Crawford, whose terse reply to each ultimatum presented by the convicts was "Go to hell!" Below are the two guards who were freed by the convicts after a night of terror in which they saw their captive comrades coldly murdered by the mutineers and their bodies tossed from windows. The guard in the cap is O. H. Farl; the youngest one is Lawrence Roche.

Bingen Boy Wins Free Trip To Fair

Another Youngster Goes In for 4-H Club Work and Succeeds.

Oscar Holt, Bingen, won the trip which is offered every year by the State Fair for one 4-H club boy in the county. Oscar has been doing 4-H club work now for four years and has been making a splendid record each year. This year he has carried four projects as follows:

1. Gift and litter.
2. Acre cotton.
3. Acre corn.
4. Acre pine timber.

He cleared over $100 from a pure bred gilt which he purchased last January, is entered in both the gold watch corn and cotton contests, and has one of the three forestry projects in the county.

Since Oscar completed his high school work at Nashville last spring he is now in school at Magnolia A. & M. college and left there this morning for the State Fair.

Harry Derryberry, 4-H club boy from DeAnn, is also making the State Fair this year and has likewise done some good club work. These boys will return the latter part of the week.

Couple Not Wanted for Springs Killing

Pair Held In Oklahoma Only To Face Dallas Burglary Charge

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Police today said that a couple under arrest in Seminole, Okla., who gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hutz and reported to have been held in connection with the murder at Hot Springs of Preston R. Austin, wealthy Victoria, Texas, cattleman, were wanted only on burglary charges here.

Officers announce that so far as they knew there was nothing to connect the couple with the Hot Springs murder. They are being returned here to face a burglary charge.

New Confession In Lamar Robbery and Gang Murders

Accuser of One Is Named
"King Killer" of
Ruthless Crew

IS NEW CONFESSION

Shifts Blame From Free
Man To One Held Who Had Accused Him

LAMAR, Col., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A new confession by one of the Lamar bank robbers and murders, naming his chief accuser as the "king killer" of the gang, threw confusion into the ranks of the prosecution today at the opening of the trial of George J. Anshier, one of the gang charged with first degree murder.

The confession was made by Howard L. Royston and accused Ralph Fleagle, third member of the gang in custody, as the slayer of three of the four men shot by the robbers. A previous confession signed by Anshier named Jake Fleagle, brother of Ralph, as the gang leader and killer of the four. Jake has not been captured.

It was the confession signed by Ralph Fleagle which led to the capture of Anshier and Royston. Fleagle was promised immunity from the death penalty in return for the information he gave the authorities. Both Royston and Anshier denied today they were trying to get revenge on Fleagle.

MacDonald Ends White House Visit

Believes Nations Have Made Long Steps To- wards Understanding

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald and President Hoover today came to the end of their frank discussion of the questions which might form the focal point of friction between the American and British people.

Each radiated confidence today for the forward step taken in the Anglo-American accord.

With the vexing question of general naval parity behind them, they were free to round out their conversations with discussions of other subjects. Just what passed between the men will probably never be known in detail. In an informal talk to the senate, however, MacDonald said one result of his visit was that American and English had come to a perfect understanding of each other and that neither would form any conclusive alliance directed against the interest of the other.

Though today marked the end of his visit to the White House, Mr. MacDonald will remain in Washington until Thursday.

Former Mayor of Mena, Long In Harness, Dies

MEANA, Oct. 8.—(AP)—John H. Hamilton, 78, former mayor of Mena and former member of the state legislature, died at his home here early today. He had been active in the political and business affairs of Mena since the city's origin.

Cotton Crop Estimate Increased Over Last Month In Government Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Challenging the "correctness" of today's cotton ginning report by the Bureau of the Census, Senator Heflin, of Alabama, announced that he would introduce a resolution asking an investigation of the Bureau.

KENTON, O., Oct. 8.—Kent youths are going around in circles. That, it is admitted, won't get them very far, but they are not marrying.

Ralph Mooney, a clerk, started it all when he rode a bicycle around one street intersection 800 times and claimed a world's championship.

To capture this title cyclists must go in a circle at all times; must keep going in one direction; must not rest, and must be on a street intersection.

Junior Loop Wins In Initial Struggle

Parting Such Sweet
Sorrow As Auto Is Taken, Purse Left

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Parting was such sweet sorrow for Andrew Cerva Sunday night.

Cerva, sitting in his parked automobile taking a long time saying good night to Miss Alma Niemeyer, was held up by two men with pistols. Cerva had figured out what he would do in such emergency. He had $15 in a vest pocket and $100 in his purse.

"What do you two young fellows want to take my money for?" he temporized. "I'm just sitting here with my girl." He slipped the purse from his pocket, and it dropped to the floor of the car.

"You are insulting," said one of the roughnecks. "Even to imply we want your money. We want your car."

A moment later, Cerva and Miss Niemeyer stood on the curb watching the receding taillight of the Cerva car on the floor of which was the Cerva bankroll.

No Attorney's Fees From School Funds

Lonoke County Court
Award To Be Appealed
To Supreme Court

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Two officers from Lonoke county, after a conference today with State Superintendent of Education Claude M. Hirst, announced that the order of the Lonoke county court allowing payment of attorney's fees incurred by the county out of school funds would be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Characterizing the ruling as "setting a dangerous precedent," Hirst said attorneys had been directed to perfect an appeal for early submission to the State Supreme Court.

Fall Case Likely To Bring Surprise

Deposition Not of Record
May Be Read Into Evidence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Possibility that a deposition given by Albert Fall in the Sinclair conspiracy case but never put into the records might be made public during the current trial of Fall for bribery was seen today when W. V. Hull, United States Commissioner at El Paso, Texas, appeared at the trial as a government witness.

Hull took the 10,000 word document in El Paso a year and a half ago when attorneys for Sinclair insisted that Fall's testimony was essential to Sinclair's defense.

Owen J. Roberts, special counsel for the government, began his opening statement as soon as the jury entered the box. He went into detail as to Naval Oil Reserve No. 1, at Elk Hills, Cal., in connection with which the government charges Fall, then secretary of the interior accepted a bribe of $109,000 from Doheny, wealthy oil operator, for awarding him the lease.

Eighth inning—Root worked carefully, retiring the first three men to face him. Ehmke still thorough master of the situation, and neither side made a threat.

Ninth inning—The Phillies wrecking crew got started, scoring twice and having two on bases before a man was retired. The scoring stopped there. Still puzzled by Ehmke's tantalizing slow curves, the Cubs shoved across one run.

October Peak Month for Motor Car Accidents

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—This month is the peak time of the year for automobile accidents.

Before the end of October, approximately 2,600 persons will have met their deaths in motor mishaps in the United States, according to Chas. S. White, of Wichita, Kan., nationally known safety authority in an address here.

"Considered from the standpoint of averages for the past few years, the October toll of deaths from automobile accidents will total nearly twice the 1,100 lives lost in the world's marine disasters in 1928," declared Mr. White. "And that is not taking into consideration the 90,000 persons who will suffer injuries this month in motor accidents."

The Handicap of Aviation

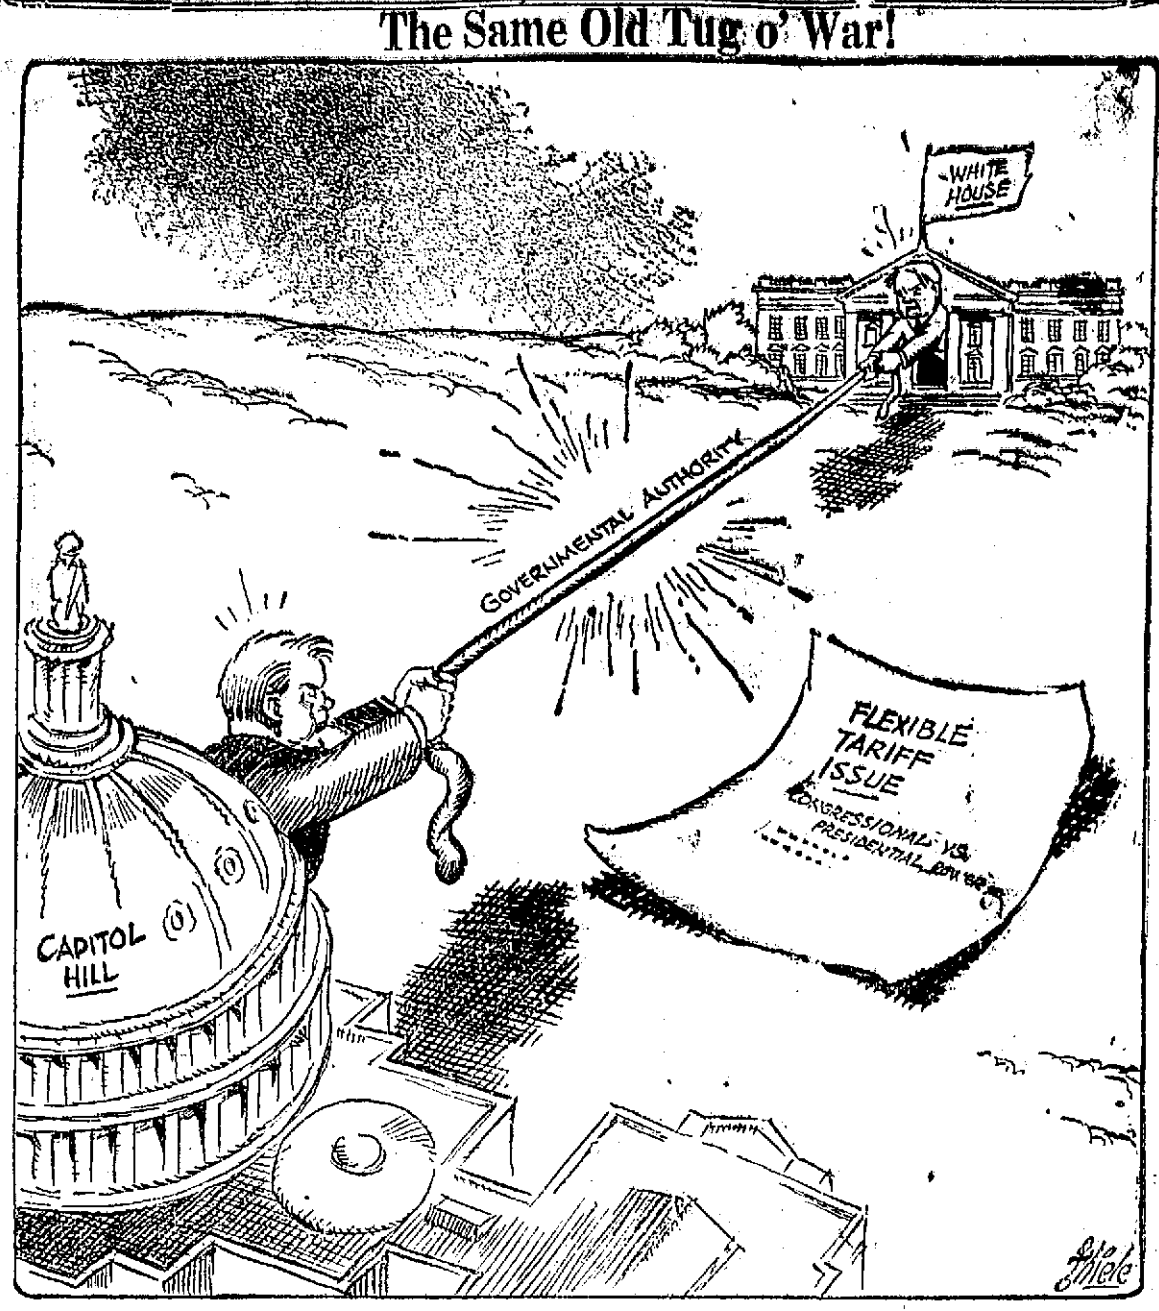

THE men in charge of the country's commercial aviation firms continue to see a bright future ahead. Air transportation, they are firmly convinced, has come to stay; not only that, it is only beginning to show its usefulness. Obviously, the one great obstacle in the way of these companies is the widespread public feeling that the airplane is not quite safe, and never will be. The public demands speed, but it also demands safety; and, despite its growing enthusiasm for aviation, it still has a lurking suspicion that the airplane has not quite proved its dependability. It is interesting, under these circumstances, to look back at the public reception that greeted other forms of transportation where they were first introduced. It is only a century, for instance, since the school trustees in an Ohio town indignantly refused to let the school house be used for a debate, "Is the Steam Engine Feasible?" Extension of the first railways to certain European cities brought loud protests from the doctors, who said not only that it would be unsafe for people to ride on fast-moving trains but that even spectators would find their health impaired by the strain of gazing at objects moving at the unheard-of speed of 20 miles an hour. The early river steamers were, for many years after their introduction, considered a highly risky form of transportation. The boilers on the early marine engines were decidedly unstable. Explosions that caused wrecks and took many lives were common. Yet the steamboat gained favor, despite these very real risks its passengers ran—and, in the course of time, the risks were eliminated. It is barely 20 years since magazines were carrying articles discussing the question whether the automobile would be a passing fad like the bicycle or would become an integral part of the nation's transportation system. These bits of ancient history are worth relating, because the airplane is encountering the same sort of attitude. It seems safe to predict that the airplane, like the train, the steamer and the auto, will finally win out.

Still Popular

THERE is a certain type of sports writer abroad in the land today to whom baseball seems to be anathema. This kind of writer digs at baseball every chance he gets. He enlarges on the fact that it is a business enterprise more than a sport; and whenever possible, he asserts that it is losing in public favor. A good many stories of that sort have been printed this summer. But a survey of the season's records proves they are wrong. The National League is due to surpass its best attendance records, and the Cubs will probably beat the best season the famous Yankees ever had. The World Series is arousing a tremendous amount of interest. In the American League Cleveland and Detroit are prospering far more than last year, and even the lowly Red Sox have been getting good patronage. Baseball is not slipping, no matter what the clamorous howlers say. If you doubt it—just try to get a seat at the World series.

Be Vigilant

THE change in the public's attitude toward huge industrial and financial mergers is something that is both interesting and a little disturbing to contemplate. At the beginning of this century the formation of the huge trusts put the country into a ferment of apprehension, and "trustbusting" politicians won much fame. Now, however, with new giant mergers announced every day, no one gives the matter a second thought. We have lost all of our fear. To a certain extent, this is a good thing. Business is ruled by a higher variety of ethics now than it was three decades ago. But the present mergers should be watched carefully. They will be of vast service to us, but they may ultimately form the framework for an all-powerful financial dictatorship. We don't need the panicky frenzy of 1900 now; but we do need more vigilance than we seem to be exercising.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
WASHINGTON. —It may not be a matter of news, but it certainly is a thought not to be overlooked—Herbert Hoover threatens to become one of the most popular of American presidents. There is nothing about his personality, as thus far revealed, that would be likely to endear him to the populace. But he has shown plenty of skill in not doing the unpopular things and in doing and saying the things which have struck responsive chords with large masses of people. Even the Remonstrants have had to praise him so frequently as to give considerable pain. Your correspondent knows a dozen persons who know Hoover well and dislike him personally, yet are willing to admit that as President he has been doing a really fine job. Something Like Teddy And although it is too early to make any safe predictions, it can be said with some assurance that if Hoover continues to show up as well as he has in the first seven months he will rank in general esteem with Roosevelt as one of the two outstanding Republican presidents since Lincoln. Of course, there is plenty of likelihood that Hoover will have plenty of trouble before he leaves the White House. But the assertions made here-with are based on what seems to be the opinion of correspondents and public men in Washington and of editorial writers everywhere. Lately Hoover has been in the midst of what appears to be enormous strides toward an assured world peace. Amid loud cheers on all sides he has been conducting negotiations with England which ought to result in a permanent understanding with our main naval rival. Thanks to Hoover and Premier Ramsey MacDonald the whole international atmosphere has been changed. The Kellogg peace treaty was negotiated in the Coolidge administration, but Hoover is the man who intends to make it stick and who actually seeks to cut military and naval expenses. Nothing, apparently could have been more popular than Hoover's peace policy coupled with his strong open attack on the big navy propagandists who were trying to interfere with his naval reduction efforts. Everybody has joined him in landing with both feet on Mr. William B. Shearer and the ship-building companies which employed him. The proposal for a Senate investigation of the scandal was the most popular one of its kind that anyone here remembers. Farm relief raged as an issue for some eight years. Hoover saw to it that something was done about it. If the agricultural problem as a result of the work of the new loan is solved or partially solved Farm Board, Hoover will get most of the credit. Appointment of the law enforcement commission was another popular move; hardly anyone saw anything in it to complain about. At the outset of his administration he abolished the famous "White House spokesman" and one recalls no objections to that, but many commendations. The progressives, who generally attack on specific principles, and the Democrats, who attack on general principles, were pleasantly astonished when Hoover abolished the Mellon policy of secrecy on income tax refunds. They applauded again when Hoover promised to purge his party of the nasty conditions, which it had tolerated in the South.

BARBS

A great many women are taking up the law, says a bulletin from an eastern college. And probably an even greater number are laying it down. A woman's magazine says that autumn fashions will be full of eccentricities. That's not a very tactful thing to say. There are 369 general and 5646 privates in the Mexican Army. So far the 369 are holding out valiantly against promotion. There were 58 slight earthquakes during one day recently in Hawaii. No wonder those Hula maidens can dance. The name of a new book is "The Runaway Sardine." Probably some flat-dweller who fled screaming to the wilds. Edison keeps going around and around in his search for a new source for rubber. Did he ever try the steaks on a restaurant menu?

THE BEAUTITUDES

Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted.
Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth.
Blessed are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness for they shall be filled.
Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy.
Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.
Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God.
Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake. Rejoice and be exceeding glad for great is your reward in heaven for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you. —Matthew 5:3-13.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Our father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done as in heaven, so on earth. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil. —Luke 11:1-4.

"So the high-life racket got you, you cheat!"

The story of a woman who played with fire

"THE best little parry-pal on earth!" The girl responded with a glorious smile. How alluringly gay and beautiful she was! No wonder men idolized her, showered her with gifts, called her "Queen" of the city's night life!

They did not know that behind those laughing eyes lay a cloud of misery—that her gaiety was simply a mask to hide a heart that was heavy and sad. How she despised these fools, their wild parties, their kisses. How little they suspected that she was doing this for him, her sick husband—that he might be restored to health and happiness.

But one night, something went wrong. In the midst of the merriment, a wave of giddiness swept her... Dawn found her at her own gate, striving with numb intelligence to piece together the dim, hazy-formed pictures of what had happened.

Stacy - Malone Bout Thursday Night On Paper Stacks Up As A Sure Winner

Both Boys Have Good Records and Press Reports Indicate That Neither Is Averse To Mixing It—Taylor's Friends Optimistic.

Promptly following Tex Leavelle's victory over a bit of limbering up after his ar- Stacy and Pat Malone would be his main event entrants at the Rink boxing card Thursday night of this week, Stacy comes to town, bringing his manager along. They have pitched camp here and Stacy, in his workout at the Rink Monday afternoon created a favorable impression on those who looked him over. He works out each afternoon and the public is cordially invited to drop around and watch him step.

Malone is a udeshr, -ETTETET Malone is due to arrive tomorrow, Wednesday, doing his training at Hot Springs and announcing that he is ready. He will only do a bit of limbering up after his arrival.

The Jack Pierce-Ralph Taylor semi-final is causing considerable comment. Taylor, local high school boy, is a clever boxer but he's stacking up against a plenty tough young youngster in that Cotton Valley lad and prospects are good for each of them agreeing, after the show, that he has been in a mix-up.

And then, as a special added attraction, Johnny Celmurs, the old war-horse, against Art Quillan, Spring Hill slugger, in a six-round grudge bout. Fans and fanettes, that ought to be worth walking a long way to see! Each has won a decision from the other over the K-O route and this meeting settles the question of supremacy.

Leavelle is trying to arrange for a winner-take-all battle royal and if he can get hold of the boys he wants the evening's fun will start with a rush.

At Purdue is Jim Photan, St. Thomas, off St. Paul, Minn., has Joe Boland. At St. Xavier's, Cincinnati, is Joe Meyer, University of Buffalo has Jay Lee.

George Philbrook has charge of the University of Nevada eleven, and at Mt. St. Charles, Helena, Mont., is Wilbur Eaton. At Gonzaga, Spokane, is M. J. Smith. Slip Madigan is molding Notre Dame teams at St. Mary's, Oakland, Calif. At South Dakota State is T. C. Kasper, Creighton, at Omaha, is coached by C. A. Wynne.

These men are carrying the football gospel of Rockne into every part of the country. You see Notre Dame football wherever you go.

His Own Team
Notre Dame's strength this year is certain, though Rockne himself will admit only that prospects are "fair." There are three men for every position. In a practice game the other day, expert witnesses reported they never saw blocking and tackling so uniformly good. Instead of the well-known Rockne aerial attack, the first team played a wide-open running game, varied with line drives.

There is power in the Notre Dame line, with Captain Law at one guard and Cannon at the other. The tackles no doubt will be Tom King is at the University of Louisville, Ky., Gene Oberst at half at pivot. At ends are Col. Washington and Lee, and Harry Melve at the University of Georgia. Jack McGeachy coaches the strong Rice Institute team at Houston, Texas, and P. W. Thomas is at the University of Chattanooga. Chuck Collins is at the University of North Carolina and Stan Coffall at Wake Forest, N. C.

German Finds Earth Is Solid As Rock To Core

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Recent experiments indicating that the center of the earth may be solid as a rock are announced by Prof. Franz Simon of the Physico-Chemical Institute of Berlin.

Enormous pressure, a million times that of the air, he thinks, keeps the core of the earth hard even at its estimated temperature of nearly 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Professor Simon's experiments agree with the beliefs of geologists, many of whom hold that the earth's core is not molten or gaseous.

Simon heated helium to eight times the temperature that turns it into a gas and then reduced it while still warm to a solid by applying pressure 6000 times greater than that of air.

New York Gets Fish From Lake In Desert

TONOPAH, Nev., Oct. 8.—One of the paradoxes of the desert is a new industry established at the new naval ammunition depot at Hawthorne, 100 miles from here, where fish by the carload are shipped to New York City.

The particular species consists of monster carp that have thrived with immunity in the waters of Walker lake, a brackish formation 30 miles long never touched by white fishermen.

The demand comes from merchants who cater to Chinese and Japanese, who accept the carp as one of their national dainties. The carp are caught by Pah Ute Indians of the Schurz reservation at the head of the lake, who seine the entire length of the body of water, accumulating more than a ton at each haul.

That Brutal Overseer Roasts in Hades! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Wise legislation has halted the ancient prejudice that dictated the exploitation of child labor for selfish gain. Guided by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE it has routed greed. No longer are little children forced into slavery.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified, LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Helen Page feels hopelessly in love with her guardian, Leonard Brent. A chance meeting with a dying beggar, Charles Nellin, causes Brent to change his plans for Helen's future. Soon after he tells her that she is the only grandchild of a millionaire, Cyril K. Cunningham, Brent takes her to Cunningham and offers proofs which the lonely old man accepts. Hoping to make up for the injustice done her mother, Cunningham shows the girl with affection and pride.

Among Helen's new friends are Eva Ennis and her brother Robert, who falls in love with her. Brent finds another locket like the one he had taken from Nellin to prove Helen is the heiress. He also becomes jealous of Bob and plots to secure Helen for himself quickly. Hearing the doctor say that a sudden shock would kill the old man, Brent gets the servants out of the way and rushes into the sick room shouting wildly that Helen has been killed. His plan works and when the attendant returns, Cunningham is dead. Then Brent appears as friend and former guardian of Helen and takes charge of arrangements.

Brent tries to break off a love affair with Eva without arousing Helen's suspicions. Meanwhile, a chance meeting between Helen and Bob reveals their love for each other, but she tells him she has promised herself to another. Next day Helen goes to New York to ask Brent to release her and finds Carmel Segro there acting very much at home. When Brent returns, Carmel throws herself into his arms before he sees Helen. This makes it easier for Helen to demand that their engagement be broken, but Brent refuses to release her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"Have you lunched?" Brent said surprisingly.

This time Helen succeeded in getting to her feet. "No," she cried. "I'm going back to Bramblewood."

Brent's smile still held. "To that puppy, Ennis, I suppose?"

Helen disdained to answer.

"Lunch with me," Brent said, half commanding before she had moved far away. "We haven't talked to the end of this thing and I know you won't be so unfair as to leave it in the air, Helen."

"What more is there to say?" Helen protested.

"A great deal," Brent quietly returned. "Will you lunch with me?"

"Not here in your apartment," Helen declared, thinking of the lunch Carmel had prepared.

"Whatever you like," Brent compromised.

"Sherry's?"

Brent nodded.

Helen gathered her things together while Brent got his hat and stick and they left immediately.

Ten minutes later at Sherry's, they were seated at the most secluded table available. There were people within earshot of them but If you had you would have wanted to break our engagement regardless of the loyalty you feel for me."

"Then you don't really believe that I am capable of true loyalty?" Helen broke in.

"My dear, I think true love would have settled the matter for you without coming to me," Brent answered promptly.

"Helen sat back in her chair feeling most unhappily disturbed. Brent's words were so much in accord with what Bob had said, was she indeed then not really in love? A thought of last night's sleepless pain-filled hours brought a twisted smile to the corner of her lips.

"You wouldn't have waited until you had what probably would prove you into quarreling with me under any circumstances," Brent was going on in his smooth fashion. "You'd have come to me and said it was all off."

"I'm not jealous," Helen answered scornfully.

Brent smiled. "Of course you are, my dear," he told her. "All women are. And yours is the unreasonable jealousy of the cloistered maid. You haven't any rivals in my affections, but if you had you wouldn't know how to handle them. You'd try elimination, forgetting that there are corners in life around which jealous eyes may not peer, but which offer a convenient escape for one who wishes to be unserved for a period of time."

Helen felt that he was laughing at her. "I don't care to hear any more about your ideas of a man's rights," she said frigidly. "I'm more modern than you are, I think. Certainly there is nothing now in the claim to the kind of freedom you seem to require. It's far more up-to-date to believe in living more decently," she finished defiantly.

Brent permitted a mock sigh to escape his lips. "I can reform," he said lugubriously.

Suddenly Helen's manner changed. "Please take me seriously, Leonard," she besought him. "I could never forget what I saw to-day even if I loved you. We haven't the same viewpoint in the matter at all. Perhaps I am old-fashioned, or maybe I am just more advanced than you are, but whatever it is I'm not tolerant of looseness."

For a few seconds when she finished speaking Brent held his tongue and his temper; then both broke out.

"Don't be a little fool," he said sharply. "A man's a man, Helen."

Helen drew herself up and gave him a hard, straight glance. "You are the fool," she said quietly.

Brent shrugged. "But that as it may," he replied, "I intend to have you. You owe me a debt that you cannot repay in any other way. I've given the best years of my life to you, Helen. I might have married, but I wanted to be free to live for you, to travel with you and to give you a home. Most women would have resented you. I knew that and the knowledge made me avoid such entanglements. You are too loyal to let me down now. I'm banking on that, and I don't believe I am a fool."

DIZZINESS AND CONSTANT PAIN

Health Improved and Work Easier After She Had Taken Cardui.

McAlester, Okla.—"My work seemed a burden, and I never felt able to do my work with pleasure as I do now," writes Mrs. Ebb Haile, in telling about a run-down condition of health in which she found herself some time ago. Mrs. Haile lives at 524 West Cherokee Street, this city.

"I had constant pains in my head, and felt so dizzy I had to lie down most of the time," writes Mrs. Haile.

"I had been reading how other ladies had taken Cardui and had been helped. I decided that it might help me. I have never regretted taking Cardui. After taking a few bottles, I was much improved. My health and strength were wonderful. Work seemed easy. Since that time, if I feel in springtime that I need a tonic, I take a bottle or two of Cardui with the same good results."

For over fifty years, women who had suffered, or who had gotten into a run-down, weak condition, have been enthusiastic in their praise of Cardui.

MOST COLORFUL SITES IN AMERICAN FIGURE PROMINENTLY IN "EVANGELINE"

The extreme contrasts in American topography form the background for the action of "Evangeline," the new United Artists picture starring Dolores Del Rio at the Saenger theatre Wednesday and Thursday. "Evangeline," the character of Longfellow's immortal poem, was an Acadian, being on the peninsula near the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, in Canada. With the hundreds of other townspeople of quaint Grand Pre, a peaceful village on the rocky shores of the Bay of Minas, she was deported to Maryland and while she was searching for Gabriel, torn from her arms, on her wedding eve, the Acadians, moved from Maryland to Louisiana. In following the girl's courageous adventure, Mr. Carewe's cameras have recorded the wave-lashed seacoast, the primitive woods of eastern America, the broad rivers, Philadelphia in its early days and the sub-tropical Louisiana with its rustic settings, its weird-shaped moss covered oaks, and its romantic bayous. Critics who have previewed "Evangeline" attest the fact that few pictures have been as beautiful in natural settings and quaint romantic atmosphere.

Necktie Necessary To Secure Citizenship

FITCHBURG, Mass., Oct. 8.—You can't become an American citizen without wearing a necktie—at least not at the naturalization session over which Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall presides. When Evangelos J. Ghones appeared in quest of citizenship papers the judge noted that he had no cravat. The candidate was obliged to go out and procure a tie before being passed.

As Fall Floods Swept Southern Georgia

Floods in the wake of torrential autumnal rains caused high property damage, cut off communication and imperilled many lives in parts of Georgia. How high waters blocked traffic on the important Coastal Highway near Savannah is shown in the picture above. In the background are relief cars that ventured as far as possible into the flood zone. Below, right, residents on the outskirts of Savannah are shown as they waded through rapidly rising waters to salvage their household effects. Below, left, is a motorist who evidently got a "bum steer" when he tried to drive his car through an inundated area.
